MRS. J. J. GLYNN MISS MAGUIRE

Niece of Governor Alfred E. Smith and her sister were among 1,000 or more women who attended trial and heard Gray's own story on the witness stand. Hundreds of other women were unable to gain admission to the courtroom just as they were on previous days of the trial, especially when Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder, Gray's co-defendant, testified in her own defense. Many notables are in daily attendance.

Gray Describes Two Attempts by Ruth to Kill Snyder

Long Island City, N. Y., May 4.—Henry Judd Gray today told of Mrs. Snyder's early attempts to kill her husband in the following testimony:

"It was in December, when I met her on my return to New York from Rochester that she said she had used sleeping potions at two different times in various quantities.

"In her second attempt," she said, "she had kicked off the gas tube, but she had not had any luck as Snyder had awakened and smelled the gas.

"She said her husband had told his sister that on two different times Mrs. Snyder had nearly been a widow. She was afraid he would get suspicious and ask if I knew any other way. I told her I did not."

Queens County Courthouse, Long Island City, N. Y., M.
—Ruthless Ruth must be a romantic girl, after all.

She had planned "a watery grave" for her late consort, Albert, says Judd. Ruth asked her boy friend to find a "drowning" clause in the policy, but insurance companies cannot be expected to have so much

"Try it on the paramour," is the new substitute for "try it on the fellow."

JUDD'S STORY LIKE A PLEA.
He deplores the fact that his work kept him from being a perfect lover. This can scarcely be his conscious intention—defending Ruth, But somehow his voice and ner is sympathy and regret. Though he gives damning testimony about her plans to Snyder, he tries to "explain" infidelity as he, earnest seller of corsets, and rather reluctant lover saw it.

Among other notables here today Charles McCann (who married a Miss "Hop" Smith, his ex-girl friend)

Now he is making bold strokes around deep water. Ruth, he says, found her husband's advances distasteful. Judd, who hesitated yesterday to give Ruth away, took the plunge midday.

Causes Sensation Among Students

New York, May 4.—The girls of Barnard College were informed today just how to test a man's love.

The test, as suggested by an anonymous professor of Columbia University through the Spectator, the college paper, are these:

First—Get drunk with him.
Second—Play cards with him.
Third—Note what jokes he laughs at.

The professor's advice caused a sensation in scholastic circles. His article was headed "Strip Poker Tables," and here is one reason as given in the article as to why it is taboo:

"For one thing, what with the amount of clothes the fair coeds wear in these stirring times, the game would be ever almost before it started."

Bridge at 15 cents a point was suggested as a substitute. Then the professor goes on:

"Having played cards with your sweetheart for money, your next move, so to speak, is to get drunk with him. This is not quite as simple as it seems. Let us assume that you are in a taxi bound for, let us say (Oh, please let us say), the Club Signet."

SUGGEST A LITTLE GIN NEXT

"You now must begin to talk about the perfectly adorable man you were out with the other night and the absolutely divine, my dear, liquor that he had. And don't omit commenting on the fact that he could really hold his liquor, my dear."

"That will put your escort in the proper frame of mind."

"Having arrived at the club you must protest vigorously that you never, never drink anything but a little wine or champagne, my dear. However, oh, the ever enticing (however), you would just as soon have gin if it would make him feel better. The gin is purchased, and a so-called orange blossom is mixed. You merely sip this and then begin a wild flirtation with the nearest waiter."

"Then you protest that you're awfully cockeyed, my dear, and prove it by trying to kiss the cute bald spot of that adorable old man at the next table. You then must laugh loud and long at everything in general and nothing in particular, saying to your escort:

THEN USE YOUR DISCRETION

"When the escort begins to get purple about the girls it is your cue to slip gracefully under the table, be carried out and placed in a cab. Then you may use your own discretion."

In finding the kind of jokes a fellow laughs at, the coeds are advised to say:

"Darling, have you heard the one about the farmhand and the nervous brider?"

If he frowns he is no gentleman, the professor says, and a girl had better send him home at once.

SOBS LOVE FOR VET WHO LEFT SUICIDE NOTE

If Frank MacEntee, British World War veteran, threatened suicide as a ruse to win the love of Myrtle Louise Libby, 18-year-old North Abington High School senior, his ruse will be proven successful if he will return to her.

"I told Frank I did not know whether or not I loved him, but now I know for sure he's as much all the world to me as his suicide note described me to him," pretty Myrtle sobbed this morning. "I hope he was only kidding to win me over to his idea about getting married. He can be sure of the warmest welcome from my family and me. I'll marry him tomorrow if that promise would bring him back."

MacEntee wrote a suicide note to the Boston police Monday night. Another note addressed to Myrtle was found with her picture in MacEntee's hat on Pier 4 off Northern avenue by police. The veteran described himself in them all as too disappointed to live without his Myrtle's love.

Another note was received by Myrtle this morning. It was mailed from Boston with a Tuesday postmark, although supposed to have been written shortly before midnight Monday. The apparent discrepancy in the hour of his disappearance and the time of mailing the card gave Myrtle new hope that MacEntee will return.

The card was addressed to the girl's father. "Dear Old Dad," it reads. "Just a line to you and the rest of the family. Please think of your boy Frankie and take good care of my little Myrtle because she is worth anything on earth, and I love her dearly."

"You will see everything in the morning papers, so don't think too much of it," the card says.

"Well, I must say good-bye, although it hurts my heart so. Good-bye and God love you all. Your adopted son, Frank A. MacEntee."

Myrtle Libby, high school girl of North Abington, hopes it was only a ruse and that Frank MacEntee still lives. She'll marry him if he'll come back.

ISSUE WARRANT FOR NARCOTIC AGENT

Barro Vaccaro is a Federal narcotic agent, but he was in Malden court tomorrow on a charge of assault and battery with a loaded revolver and carrying a revolver in Malden without a permit.

The agent is alleged to be the man who shot Daniel Gerardi early in the morning of April 27 during a Modford murder, the details of which Federal officers kept secret even from the Modford police.

A warrant has been issued against Vaccaro in Malden court. It was returned today as Donald J. Sullivan of Malden, a government informer, state being sentenced to two years in Malden court on an indictment of possession of morphine.

Chief Narcotic Agent William H. Allen made a plea for a lenient sentence of two years for Sullivan.

In November, 1923, Vaccaro was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury for selling narcotics. Again in July, 1924, he was similarly indicted. It was said at the Federal building today that Vaccaro will surrender in Malden court tomorrow, and that Assistant United States Attorney John Spaulding will appear and will move that the case be transferred to Federal District Court.

U. S. E. HAS MET CHALLENGE OF NEW DAY

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.
Washington, May 4.—New England got a great hand today from the delegates from the four corners of the country to the fifteenth annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

NEW ENGLAND SPIRIT.

And when he illustrated the national spirit that "unites New England, now as always, by declaring that her people are proud of the fact that 'Bunker Hill and Old North Bridge belong to the nation' his audience showed their appreciation of the fact by enthusiastic applause."

Mr. Lawrence was introduced by the president of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. J. W. O'Leary, who gave the speaker high praise for his leadership in the new era of control.

BRIGHTER DAY DAWNS.

By telling them of the problems which this condition brought to New England, the delegates realized he was giving them a glimpse of the problems which all Eastern States and even more distant areas would have to move toward.

After a review of all the advertising published in the Boston Evening American during the week ending Saturday, April 29, the advertising board of judges has selected the following as the winners of the prize review.

Of the four addresses that were on the program this morning not one was a failure. There was a lot of facts about New England and the fact that they had forgotten or never knew.

Also that for 25 years New England industry as a whole has employed more people and done more business year by year.

The winning advertisement reproduced in reduced size in today's paper wins its laurels because of its comprehensiveness, its thoroughness of appeal, and its presentation within a comparatively small space without any suggestion of crowding.

The ad is eminently simple and easy to read. It pictures its prime impression and its urge to action without any suggestion of the conservative and unimagination style that identifies the firm.

No fact of truly vital importance is omitted. The reader is equipped with complete information. The idea of concentrating upon one feature and assigning a time limit increased the judges as an excellent piece of advertising strategy.

The decision of the judges seems to have been well founded for Jordan Marsh Company reports satisfactory results from the prize winning sales.

The advertisement was prepared as part of the reviewing schedule without any special consideration or special effort.

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.
Washington, May 4.—New England got a great hand today from the delegates from the four corners of the country to the fifteenth annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

They filled the spacious committee chamber on Lafayette square to hear the address of John B. Lawrence of Massachusetts, president of the New England Chamber of Commerce, and spokesman for the "east" at the general session on business problems from the point of view of the East, the South, the Midwest and the West.

Frequently Mr. Lawrence was interrupted with applause as he traced the weakening of New England during the last two years to the challenges of a new day and to the obligations of a new nation.

And when he illustrated the national spirit that "unites New England, now as always, by declaring that her people are proud of the fact that 'Bunker Hill and Old North Bridge belong to the nation' his audience showed their appreciation of the fact by enthusiastic applause."

Mr. Lawrence was introduced by the president of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. J. W. O'Leary, who gave the speaker high praise for his leadership in the new era of control.

President O'Leary also praised the speaker for his leadership in the new era of control.

By telling them of the problems which this condition brought to New England, the delegates realized he was giving them a glimpse of the problems which all Eastern States and even more distant areas would have to move toward.

The frankness with which the speaker related the recent economic troubles that New England has been weathering and the facts and figures of his speech have already done much to give to the delegates a better understanding of the problems which they had forgotten or never knew.

For example, that the population of New England is increasing right along, that one of the states of that region shows a 23 per cent gain in six years and that the average is 10 per cent.

Also that for 25 years New England industry as a whole has employed more people and done more business year by year.

GAIN POINT FOR GUN-TOTING HEIRRESS

Friends of Elsie Marsh Morrell, Belmont's gun-toting heiress, today scored a partial victory in their fight to bring about her release from the McLean Detention Hospital when Dr. Tilston, physician in charge granted their request for an examination by alienists engaged by the girl's counsel, Jeremiah W. Mahoney.

A similar request made last week before Judge Mahoney in East Cambridge District Court was denied and the court ordered her committed to the institution for an indefinite period. Dr. Tilston's action will open the way to habeas corpus proceedings which Attorney Mahoney intends to bring before the Supreme Judicial Court following the alienist report in an attempt to prove the girl has been unjustly committed.

The latest effort to free Miss Morrell from her insane home was gained by Mrs. Catherine MacCormack of Mount Street, Dorchester. Mrs. Sarah Hughes Carroll of Newbury Street, who have been formerly with Miss Morrell for many years and Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell of Derry, N. H., who have known her since childhood.

Dr. Tilston, pastor of the Park Street Congregational Church, Boston, who is in charge of the hospital, declared his belief in the girl's sanity, encouraged the fight being waged in her behalf.

Miss Morrell was a regular attendant at the Park Street church and Dr. Tilston said she has been frequently since her commitment.

He has informed her counsel that she is perfectly normal in his opinion except for an excited reaction which might be traced to her arrest in Springfield.

HUB TO PATCH OWN STREETS, SAVE CASH

Shutting off all contractors from "star" city contract, Mayor Nichols has decided that the city itself will patch holes in streets surfaced with asphalt and bituminous following a recommendation to this effect by the Finance Commission.

The lowest bidder for this work this year was M. F. Giddals, with a bid of $1.35. He was also the lowest bidder last year, but his bid was rejected because the administration did not believe he could assemble a sufficient force to do the work.

The second lowest bidder this year was last year, was the Central Construction Company, bidding $1.25. This company got the contract last year.

The rich part of the plan, it was said today, is that city Hall, in patching the holes, will be able to save the city money by patching the holes in streets surfaced with asphalt and bituminous following a recommendation to this effect by the Finance Commission.

Gray Tells How Ruth Tried to Kill Her Editor Mate

Long Island City, N. Y., May 4.—Henry Judd Gray, editor of the Long Island Free Press, today, in a story told to the Evening American, revealed the details of a plot to kill him by a woman who had been his editor-mate.

When Mrs. Snyder conspired with her husband to kill him, she was a woman of about 35 years of age, and was a native of New York City. She was a woman of average height and build, and was a woman of average intelligence.

Gray said that he was a man of average height and build, and was a man of average intelligence. He said that he was a man of average height and build, and was a man of average intelligence.

Gray, Hopeless, Sobs as 'Sally' Prays Over Him
LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., May 4 (I.N.S.)—Henry Judd Gray was visited in the prisoners' room just before he went on the stand today at the Snyder murder trial by Adjutant Agnes H. McKernan of the Salvation Army, who prayed with him.

She told International News Service she said to him: "God bless you, my boy. I am a mother in Israel and come to comfort you."

Then she prayed: "Oh, God in Heaven, we thank Thee that Thou, too, were man and was tempted and tried as man, and we thank Thee that Thou does love Judd Gray this morning with a great love and Thy heart is kindly disposed to him. May that great love warm his heart this morning on the greatest trial of his life."

She said there were tears in Gray's eyes as he thanked her and that she cried, too.

"He seemed to have lost all hope," she declared.

By Charles Dickens

WHEN David was about seventeen he left school and his dear friends, the Wickfields, and went to London to study law. There he met his old friend, the handsome Steerforth, and the two paid a visit to Varnish, where David renewed his friendship with the Peggottys, Ham and Little Emily. Steerforth was attracted to fair-haired Emily, who was engaged to marry Ham. (Continued Tomorrow)

Gray then brought his account up to February of this year, the month before the murder of Albert Snyder, and continued to tell of frequent meetings.

In the second week of that month, he said, Snyder told him of his husband's drinking whiskey in which she had put poison. Snyder became ill, but recovered.

Ruth Weeps Again
She then told him that she had tried three different cures of poison on her husband without avail, and asked Gray to find out for her.

Miller asked if during that month Mrs. Snyder had spoken to Gray about "procuring the services" of a gunman, but on objection by counsel said "as yet."

His First Solid Food

Bread and Milk

That is why mothers stressed QUALITY

"Don't give us cheapness"—was the story the mothers told our investigators. "Bread is the first solid food we give our babies. Put QUALITY FIRST—ahead of everything."

With that command ringing in our ears, we made GILT EDGE BREAD. Not a loaf that we planned—but that we learned how to make from 50,000 bread-eaters—from 5000 grocers.

There is the reason that GILT EDGE BREAD satisfies so many people, even beyond their expectations.

A bulkier, larger loaf . . . cuts more slices . . . new appealing flavor . . . comes fresh and stays fresh . . . makes perfect toast and sandwiches . . . and we guarantee its freshness.

and telephoned Mrs. Snyder to see if she still wanted him to get the implements of murder. He testified she told him to go ahead and buy them.

The next day he went to Kingston, N. Y., where he bought the sawweight, then returning to New York.

Three days after that, he said, Mrs. Snyder telephoned him to meet her at a restaurant and give her the things he had bought. He said he went there at the appointed time and turned over the package.

"She asked me the weight was in there," he said, "and I told her it was. Then I left."

Gray said he next saw Mrs. Snyder at noon, March 7, at Jamaica by apartment.

"She asked me to come to this house," he testified, "and I couldn't then. That afternoon, however, I met her at the Jamaica station again and she said she wanted to talk about doing away with her husband."

She said she had practiced with the weight and all the time left her when she picked it up. She said I must help her, but refused, saying, "You must do this all by yourself."

"She asked me to come to her house that night and I said I would. I went there after taking some pictures from my office. I took an old camera, too."

"I got to the house a little after 11 and Mrs. Snyder beckoned to me from the kitchen. She asked me and gave me several drinks."

"She asked me if I would do the job and I said no. She asked me to stay and do it with her. I said no. She gave her the weight, and the wife and the sister, and she said she would write the details of what happened."

Then Gray said he took a train for Buffalo.

Newton later went to his home and Little was held for treatment. Chief Burke was informed of the accident and visited the hospital. Details of the investigation are withheld and registration plates were removed from the wrecked car.

The jury is the second child of the same family to die on the farm. State officials have questioned Mrs. Charles H. Martin, the mother, a 36-year-old proprietor, and her grand-daughter, Claude Chamberlain, 12, who said the boy was killed by State officials and an autopsy held. "Five of the autopsies are understood to determine the child died as the result of external injuries."

"We met at the hotel and that evening we danced at a night club. When we returned to the hotel Ruth told me her husband had been suffering from hiccups for five days."

"She said she got medicine from a druggist in Forest Hills and that she was giving it to him. She also said she had given her husband bicarbonate of mercury."

"I said, 'My God, that will kill him.' She said, 'I am curing his hiccups.'"

"I said, 'That's a—of a way to cure the hiccups.'"

RELIGIOUS ISSUE AS BALTIMORE CATHOLICS LOSE

Baltimore, May 4 (A.P.)—William F. Browning, Republican, has been selected mayor of Baltimore by a majority of 17,176 over William Curran, Democratic opponent.

Of various unexplained political factors, the effect of religious prejudice made the greatest contribution. This feeling, which operated under the surface from the beginning of the campaign, was brought into the open during its last few days.

A published statement that "the fight was to be made on Mr. Curran's house, he is a Catholic," attributed to Eugene Frederick, chairman of the Republican publicity committee, was declared to be "an infamous lie" by Mr. Frederick.

This was followed by public action of a secret affidavit by Henry H. Goldberg, a Jew, that Frederick had made the statement in question during a Republican rally which Goldberg attended. Handbills were circulated at another Republican meeting which bore, together with the name of the religious publicity committee, the designation "Protestantism vs. Catholicism." The latter word printed in capital letters. Mr. Frederick repudiated these, too.

TODAY

Mrs. Snyder and Gray, accused with her of murder, hypnotized themselves and each other and did not know what they were doing.

THAT IS the best description of the "important crime." However, rough justice through the ages has made it a habit to deprive of life or liberty those threatening the dominance of authority. That has caused such hypnosis gradually to decrease.

MUSCOLINI ALSO seems to understand hypnosis. Twenty thousand farm laborers in one district accept without murmur a cut in their pay. They wish to "cooperate" with Fascism, and make it more efficient.

Ancient Greeks, two thousand years and more before Christ, started, showed the same quality. Asked to decide whether a great sum should be divided among the citizens or kept for national defense, they voted to use the money for defense.

BRITISH LABOR is excited about a proposed law to prevent national or "general" strikes. Labor says it has a right to do as it chooses. Britain's government says: "You have no right to tie up the nation."

THE WORLD at large admits that it would be outrageous to allow a minority, even a union labor men, to rule a nation. British labor will say: "You Yankees find no difficulty about allowing a small minority of capitalists to rule your country." Possibly, but that is something else, and besides we are used to it and we are ruled, on the whole, rather well.

PROFESSOR ROOF says "teaching a materialistic conception of the universe is chiefly responsible for student suicides." If that's true, something should be done about it, especially for students that find this a satisfactory attitude.

On the other hand, statistics will show that in the past year the number of student suicides has not equal to the number of people murdered by religious fanatics.

The wise thing is to go back to Aristotle: "Not too much, not too little."

THE ADMINISTRATION does also that Mr. MacMurray will resign as Minister to Peking because this government refuses to join other powers in coercing China. Two Modern Homes Complete—Elaborately But Economically Furnished $1,800 Worth of Furniture to Be Given Away

It is with pardonable pride that C. E. Osgood Company invites during the opening week of Osgood's Permanent "Better Homes" Exposition.

This elaborate display, planned and executed to eclipse in size and importance any demonstration of home furnishings ever made in New England, has already won the admiration and enthusiastic approval of many recognized authorities in home planning.

Consisting as it does of two complete homes built within the store—not as mere temporary accommodations—but painstakingly designed by master architects and constructed to endure for generations to come. The walls are of enduring sheet-rock with a finish of the new and decorative "Craic-tex," in pleasingly artistic color.

The furnishings, particularly those of the Manor House, the principal exhibit, are expertly made. This feeling, which operated under the surface from the beginning of the campaign, was brought into the open during its last few days.

A published statement that "the fight was to be made on Mr. Curran's house, he is a Catholic," attributed to Eugene Frederick, chairman of the Republican publicity committee, was declared to be "an infamous lie" by Mr. Frederick.

This was followed by public action of a secret affidavit by Henry H. Goldberg, a Jew, that Frederick had made the statement in question during a Republican rally which Goldberg attended. Handbills were circulated at another Republican meeting which bore, together with the name of the religious publicity committee, the designation "Protestantism vs. Catholicism." The latter word printed in capital letters. Mr. Frederick repudiated these, too.

PROBE CROOKEDNESS AT SALISBURY BEACH

Bolton, May 4 (A.P.)—Deputy Attorney William O. Clark announced today that as a result of investigation made by State officers attached to his office as to conditions at Salisbury Beach last season, the whole matter will be heard before Essex County Grand Jury at Newburyport Monday.

As a result of criminal charges of "crookedness" at Salisbury Beach, Clark detailed State Officer Griffin to investigate.

A statement was obtained from a former town official, summonses will be served on other prominent town officials of last year to appear before the Grand Jury.

SPRING HOUSECLEANING DRIVES MAN TO SUICIDE

Watertown, N. Y., May 4 (N.Y.)—Slipping housecleaning driver William O. Forsythe, 35, to suicide, according to police. Despondent when his wife insisted on his sleeping in a cot in the kitchen of the house during a cleaning, Forsythe pulled his coat over his head, opened the gas jet of the stove and lay down to die on the kitchen table. His body was found today.

GRAND JURY PROBES DEATH AT BABY FARM

St. Albans, Vt., May 4 (A.P.)—A special County Grand Jury convened here today to hear evidence regarding the death of four-month-old Mary Martin, Jr., at "Mill Brook" baby farm.

The jury is the second child of the same family to die on the farm. State officials have questioned Mrs. Charles H. Martin, the mother, a 36-year-old proprietor, and her grand-daughter, Claude Chamberlain, 12, who said the boy was killed by State officials and an autopsy held. "Five of the autopsies are understood to determine the child died as the result of external injuries."

MRS. FULLER HONORARY HEAD OF GIRL SCOUTS

Stamford, May 4 (A.P.)—Mrs. T. Fuller, wife of a prominent local physician, was appointed honorary commander of the Stamford Girl Scout Council at its annual meeting here today, and Henry D. Kidder, Jr., was named honorary treasurer. Donor Francis J. Bernard of Smith College was the speaker. Reports were read.

Gray Charges Ruth Gave Snyder Poison to "Cure" Cough

Long Island City, N. Y., May 4.—In testifying about a meeting he had with Mrs. Ruth Snyder at the Waldorf Hotel, New York, Henry Judd Gray said:

"We met at the hotel and that evening we danced at a night club. When we returned to the hotel Ruth told me her husband had been suffering from hiccups for five days."

"She said she got medicine from a druggist in Forest Hills and that she was giving it to him. She also said she had given her husband bicarbonate of mercury."

"I said, 'My God, that will kill him.' She said, 'I am curing his hiccups.'"

"I said, 'That's a—of a way to cure the hiccups.'"

"She asked me to come to this house," he testified, "and I couldn't then. That afternoon, however, I met her at the Jamaica station again and she said she wanted to talk about doing away with her husband."

She said she had practiced with the weight and all the time left her when she picked it up. She said I must help her, but refused, saying, "You must do this all by yourself."

"She asked me to come to her house that night and I said I would. I went there after taking some pictures from my office. I took an old camera, too."

"I got to the house a little after 11 and Mrs. Snyder beckoned to me from the kitchen. She asked me and gave me several drinks."

"She asked me if I would do the job and I said no. She asked me to stay and do it with her. I said no. She gave her the weight, and the wife and the sister, and she said she would write the details of what happened."

Then Gray said he took a train for Buffalo.

Mrs. Snyder and Gray, accused with her of murder, hypnotized themselves and each other and did not know what they were doing.

THAT IS the best description of the "important crime." However, rough justice through the ages has made it a habit to deprive of life or liberty those threatening the dominance of authority. That has caused such hypnosis gradually to decrease.

MUSCOLINI ALSO seems to understand hypnosis. Twenty thousand farm laborers in one district accept without murmur a cut in their pay. They wish to "cooperate" with Fascism, and make it more efficient.

Ancient Greeks, two thousand years and more before Christ, started, showed the same quality. Asked to decide whether a great sum should be divided among the citizens or kept for national defense, they voted to use the money for defense.

BRITISH LABOR is excited about a proposed law to prevent national or "general" strikes. Labor says it has a right to do as it chooses. Britain's government says: "You have no right to tie up the nation."

THE WORLD at large admits that it would be outrageous to allow a minority, even a union labor men, to rule a nation. British labor will say: "You Yankees find no difficulty about allowing a small minority of capitalists to rule your country." Possibly, but that is

PROFESSOR ROOF says

"teaching a materialistic conception of the universe is chiefly responsible for student suicides." If that's true, something should be done about it, especially for students that find this a satisfactory attitude.

On the other hand, statistics will show that in the past year the number of student suicides has not equal to the number of people murdered by religious fanatics.

TELLS HARVARD
UTILITIES

A public utility like the Boston Edison Company differs from the ordinary manufacturing company, such as a cotton mill or a shoe factory, in a number of important ways, said President Charles I. Edgar of the Boston Edison Company today in a talk before the second-year students in the course in Public Utility Management at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

The three most important differences between the investment and the earnings of the two kinds of companies are, the inability to store the product of the utility, and, the necessity of using the output of the utility at a certain specified place, usually close to where it is manufactured.

RATES NOT COMPLICATED.
"The public utility business is continually met with the investment that its rates are complicated. Possibly this is due to the fact that the utility brings to the attention of most of its customers all of its various rates. If this were done in the transportation world and the man shipping a case of shoes from Lynn to Texas had to go through all of the rates on all of the roads on all of the various lines, the business would be handled by the railroad, he would be very simple after all."

REGULATION A BENEFIT.
President Edgar explained the necessity for freedom from competition in the public utility business by pointing out the peculiarities of the utility and the system of regulation as it has developed throughout the United States, and said: "While it is true we are under regulation, we have all come to look upon this factor of safety rather than a disadvantage."

Mr. Edgar emphasized the attractiveness of the utility business for college men.

Time-Saving Way of Filing

For perfect filing of daily undrawn, dressed, etc., it is the use of red dye, it is the use of cold water, you know just dip the garment and it takes whatever time you wish to give it. A matter of minutes.

Real dyes will not stain the smooth, silky-velvety work of synthetic materials for the purpositions of Diamond dyes in original powder form only. It is only a few cents at the drug store, to your own delight. Then dip to tint—and you'll have an effect that's beautiful. And if you want the tint permanent, just use boiling water!

Diamond dyes do a perfect "professional" job of dyeing, too. The druggist has sample shades and simple directions. For a book of diamond suggestions, in full color, request a free copy of Color and Diamond DYES, Dept. N32, Burlington, Vermont.

Both are reported to have appealed for annulment of their marriage on grounds that they were forced into the marriage under pressure of threats of dishonor.

College Film Courses to Spread, Says Kennedy

Atlantic City, N. J., May 4 (A.P.)—General belief that there are millions of dollars to be easily picked up in the movie industry was denied by Joseph P. Kennedy of Boston, head of the film booking offices whose district salesmen from all over the eastern territory are meeting here.

Big overhead costs, as well as enormous outlays for production and distribution, made net annual profits in excess of 3 or 10 per cent, unusual, he said.

The speaker originated the cinema course at Harvard. He said inquiries from other colleges indicated the idea would spread, especially in view of the fact that the movie industry is now regarded as the fourth largest in the country.

Kennedy discounted the possibility of the establishment of a second Hollywood in England. The move to legislate against American films in that country will not have any lasting effect, he believed. The chief obstacles to establishing a Hollywood in England, as seen by Kennedy, are lack of climate, experience, stars and capital.

JUSTIFY APPEARANCES IN YOUR DAILY LIFE

Again you have lost your faith in humanity. You have been disappointed before, but this time you are more sure than there are few persons whom you can trust!

You believe that most persons have behind a veneer which conceals far from good.

Some folks base such a belief upon self knowledge.

But isn't it too much to expect that most people are as perfect as they try to appear?

Also isn't it unfair to say that the majority of people are much more than they seem?

Yes, and should be, the desire of individuals to appear as well as possible.

To appear well requires repression and control of desire that is as

MEDBURY SAYS--

By JOHN F. MEDBURY
WILLIE is a little early for outdoor spooning, thousands of couples have already gone into spring training.
ONE man says he's getting ready for the Summer rush.
HE wants to be perfect by June.
HE'S practicing up on his approach and rehearsing his clichés.
HE'S studying to be an ambidexter. He wants to be able to get with either hand.
ONE fellow is such an expert at kissing that he can go out with two-faced women.
WHEN vacation season comes, he won't have to waste any time at the Summer resorts.
HE wants to be able to step off the train and get right to work.
HE never makes up his programs in advance. He's just as much at home with your girl as he is with his own.
HE had his face lifted the other day so that he wouldn't have to stand on a chair to spoon with his woman.
HE hasn't any steady girl. He says he'd rather free-lance.
HE had a sweetheart once, but he married her and lost her friendship.
TALK finally got a divorce to keep from splitting up.
THEY weren't suited to each other. The only thing they had in common was that they both hated automobiles.
SHE goes her way now and he goes everybody's.
THESE fellows are crazy about him. One girl followed him for three miles the other afternoon and for awhile it looked like he wasn't going to catch up to her.
HE prides himself on his spooning. He says John Gilbert and Rudolph Valentino on the screen one evening and said it looked like amateur night in the movies.
WHEN it comes to necking, he believes that practice makes perfect. And if he had his way about it he'd use the Y. W. C. A. for training quarters.

Learn a Good Lesson
Mr. Vandiver, New York, writes: "I was a salesman of creams for healing pimples, blemishes, etc., but when my face broke out with blotches, pimples and blackheads, I tried one salve after another with no results. I found it as impossible to sell skin creams as a bald headman finds selling hair cream. Finally I decided I would have to get at the cause--constipation. I was amazed to find that within two weeks my face was clear and my skin took on a new beautiful look." Try to-night--To-morrow refreshed.

Children Cry For

Why Castoria?
Years ago Castor Oil, Purgative, Drops and Soothing Syrup were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupefy the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.
It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for, the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years it has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians everywhere and becomes a household word among mothers.
A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself, without consulting a physician.
To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

WARBERT SEN. U. S. BY BRITAIN

London, May 4 (A.P.)—Full exposition of the British viewpoint on the war in the Senate, which has been dispatched to the United States, will be set tomorrow.

The note had been sent caused surprise in London, as there was no intimation of its existence until word was received that it had been sent to the American State Department.

The note is understood to be the outcome of the controversy over the debt between Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and the British Chancellor of the exchequer, Mr. Churchill.

It is thought to be the nature of the note to Secretary Mellon, the viewpoint that Great Britain is receiving more from her central war debtors than she is paying to the United States.
